

Editor's Note

It is with great pleasure that we announce the publication of the first issue of the International Journal of Lignocellulosic Products, IJLP. This was made possible thank to all the contribution and hard work by the editorial board members and other staff associated with IJLP and the kind cooperation of the head, the deputy for research and publishing office of the Gorgan University of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources.

We are excited at the enthusiasm showed by the scientists and researchers across the world and we heartily wish that this flow of information and the results of high level research work continue in future. We shall take every possible measure to facilitate this trend in the interest of the scientific community and the users of such studies: lignocellulosic raw materials resources' managers and all those involved in lignocellulosic products industries and ensuring sustainable use of green raw materials of our planet.

We shall be glad to receive your points, views, comments and suggestions toward improving the quality of IJLP.
